* _Adobe Photoshop CS5_ (covered in Chapter 9) has a built-in tutorial system that helps you learn how to use the program. * _Adobe Photoshop Elements 4_ has a more basic built-in tutorial system. * _Adobe Photoshop Lightroom 3_ has another, as does Adobe Photoshop CS5 Extended. * _Adobe Photoshop 7_ had a built-in tutorial system that was removed in Adobe Photoshop CS2. * _Photoshop Tips for Photoshop CS4_ is a quick tutorial that teaches you how to use the toolbox system to enhance your photos. The following chapters cover the tools and features of Adobe Photoshop, including how to use the toolbox, the layers system, and tools for raster image creation and adjusting contrast, color, and tonality. The following pages offer a guide to the many new tools introduced in Photoshop CS5 as well as links to websites with useful information about the new tools. ## Using the Layers System Some people use Photoshop as if it were a layer-based photo-editing program. They create one photo file with one layer, and then work on that single layer to achieve their desired look. Others create multiple layers and use a series of layer masks to create multilayered images and effects. The new feature added in Photoshop CS5 enables you to create unlimited layers and even separate one layer into multiple layers that you can edit individually.

Are you intending to travel over a long distance, or perhaps have to travel over a significant period of time? Carcassonne, for example, takes a number of hours. Is there a problem at the moment with your driving? Check that the roof of your car is secure. If there are any drinks, sweets or jellies inside, check that there aren't any crevices that they could fall out of and that you aren't going to be distracted. If you are taking children, keep your camera near you to be ready to capture the view. If they are noisy, however, keep the radio on so you don't have to listen to them. Travelling with a dog can be a nightmare at times. There is so much paraphernalia that they need and keeping it secure can become stressful. Put a small music system on your dashboard or keep a pair of headphones in the glove compartment, so the children can listen to music or talk to their friends without causing problems.

Q: iOS - -[NSMutableArray insertObject:atIndex:]: incompatible data types in object 0x10d7dfc0 I have been struggling with this error for the past few days. Please, I really need your help to sort it out. I am trying to instantiate objects with the following properties @property (strong, nonatomic) NSMutableArray *pincode; @property (strong, nonatomic) NSMutableArray *city; @property (strong, nonatomic) NSMutableArray *country; It turns out that the error is coming from the following lines of code: city = [[NSMutableArray alloc] initWithObjects:@"Kolkata",@"Thane", nil]; for (i = 0; i

The Pen Tool is a Photoshop brush with a stylus. It can be used to draw directly on an image, or create brushes that have a brush-like feel. The Paint Bucket tool is similar to the Brush, but is bigger, and the pixels are larger. The Paint Bucket tool allows you to fill a rectangular area with a color, creating an area of color. The Magic Eraser tool can erase pixels, or remove selected areas from an image. Like the Brush and the Paint Bucket, the Magic Eraser is available in Rectangular and Round tool modes. The Gradient tool can be used to fill a layer with a gradient. The gradient is a color change that moves from one area of an image to the other. The Liquify Tool allows you to make minor adjustments to the details of an image. It can stretch, smooth, change an object's shape, and invert an object's colors. The Eraser Tool can be used to remove pixels from an image, or even to make the pixels larger or smaller.

Pages Thursday, August 22, 2010 I AM... Hello precious! For all of you who have followed the model/blogger train I have been on for the last few months - this is the last stop of my way. My destination has always been at various times - to share with you my journey to Body & Sole - if only for a short while, you know... I've shared with you my thoughts and opinions on my journey towards this goal - as well as the way I finally got there. This time I will be sharing with you ALL the way from the beginning to the end. Okay, first off, I have to begin by admitting that this is not a picture-based post. My past few posts have all been, but this one isn't. It's all about me and my journey as a model. And I can now say that I won't be posting any more photo-based posts. These ones will give you a pretty detailed report of how I've gotten to this point. So here goes... First, I was introduced to modeling when my aunt in Medellin, Colombia put my photos on Facebook as a joke. She saw that I had some promo shots and thought I would make a good model. She contacted me and I started modeling for her in Medellin. In no time, she asked me if I wanted to model in New York for
